

Maine Keeps Democratic Governor At Desk

All Quiet In Sturgis School

Negro Pupils Barred In Two Towns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TROOPS and state police again kept doors of the Sturgis, Ky., High School open to Negroes Monday but jeering mobs barred Negroes from white schools in Clay, Ky., and Texarkana, Tex.

Meanwhile, desegregation of all public schools in Louisville, Ky., proceeded quietly and attendance rose sharply at the Clinton, Tenn., High School, leading authorities there to express belief the situation has "settled down" after two weeks of anti-integration disorders.

Seven Negroes attended the Sturgis High School, but only about 50 of the 310 white children were present. A crowd of 600 to 1,000 milling around the school, cheered when about 15 white children entered the school and then left.

There was no disorder from the crowd and only occasional shouts as 40 armed state police and 650 National Guardsmen supported by tanks, patrolled the area.

But Maj. Gen. J. B. Williams, Kentucky National Guard commander, reported a crowd of about 100 men at nearby Clay turned away a Negro mother, Mrs. James Gordon, and her two children, James, 10, and Teresa, 8.

Spokesman

The Rev. Frank Griffey, Negro Baptist minister and spokesman for Mrs. Gordon, told Associated Press correspondent George Hackett the children would not "return until they have the same protection that Negroes have in Sturgis."

Hackett also talked with some of the crowd gathered near the Clay school and was told no pictures would be permitted but "if they bring niggers here, you can take pictures of people dying."

A mass picket line of 300 adults and students kept Jessalyn Gray, 18, and Steve Foster, 17, from entering the Texarkana Junior College. Gravel was thrown at the two Negroes who fled in a taxi, and one white boy kicked at the Negro youth, but missed.

The only incident at Louisville desegregated its schools was a picket group of three women, two men and a 4-year-old boy set up in front of the Louisville Board of Education Building. The pickets, led by James Dumas, an executive secretary of the Citizens Council of Kentucky, attracted little if any attention.

Louisville has about 47,000 pupils, one third of them Negroes. Officials had estimated that as districts are set up, 2,810 Negroes would attend previously all-white schools this fall.

Attendance

In Clinton Monday, attendance was 520, including 11 of the 12 Negroes enrolled in the 800-pupil high school. It has been increasing since dropping to 266 following anti-integration riots a week ago. Principal D. J. Brittain Jr., expressed belief the situation has "settled down."

His opinion was shared by Sheriff Glad Woodward, who, however, had a newly-deputized force of 120 men on a standby basis as the National Guard force was cut to 30 men.

Duff Takes Rap At Stevenson

LEWISTOWN, Sept. 10 (AP)—U. S. Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.) said today Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate used "fakery, hypocrisy and effrontery" in dealing with economic issues.

Duff made the statement at a Republican rally in Lewistown where he stopped in a statewide swing seeking votes for re-election to the Senate.

"When I learn how I'm getting a swim suit in the Classified Section."

Monroe County CD Combines 27 Boats, 300 People, Fire Companies In Successful Drill

SCORES OF Monroe County residents last night watched the Civil Defense Boat Division stage a drill involving 27 boats and more than 300 persons throughout the county.

"The drill was highly successful and emphasized that we are maneuverable," Harold E. Hosier, division coordinator, said afterwards. "The purpose of the drill was to improve our system so that we are well prepared for any local or national emergency."

The drill, a highlight of Monroe County's observance of National Civil Defense Week, was one of the largest ever held in this area.

Boat division personnel were assisted by fire companies throughout the county. C-D Auxiliary police, as well as police officials in the twin boroughs and outlying communities.

From the central headquarters in the Acme Fire House in East Stroudsburg, boats were dispatched to various parts of the county. Three went to Mount Poo-no, three to Barrett, four to Tannersville, four to Marshalls Creek, four to Shawnee, eight to Stroudsburg, and four were relayed from Stroudsburg to Delaware Water Gap.

From Mount Pocono, Barrett and Marshalls Creek, boats were sent to other points along creeks and lakes, where they completed independent drills.

Some units, after returning to East Stroudsburg, were dispatched to various points along Brodheads Creek.

Radford Warns Youth Of Communism

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 10 (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford said today that if American youth aren't taught more about what American democracy means, communism can come to this country.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said in a speech prepared for the annual Southern governors' conference:

"We cannot write communism off the books simply by saying 'Oh, it can't happen here.' Because it can—if we allow ourselves to lower our guard or diminish our active patriotism."

In another highlight of the day's program, the governors heard that touchy subject, public school integration, mentioned officially for the first time.

Subject

In other developments, the governors:

1. Got a glowing report from Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida that the South's education problems may be helped in the future by a regional television network.

"Frankly, this has captured my imagination," Collins said, adding that with such a setup the region's best instructors would be available for students throughout the South.

2. Heard, with obvious approval, that the South's industrial life is booming. Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas assured them the South is well ahead of its goal of 10,000 new industries within the next 10 years.

Javits Wins Right To Face Wagner

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Outriggering what he called a "smear campaign," New York Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits today won the Republican nomination to run against Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City for a U. S. Senate seat.

The 304-member GOP State Committee backed the 52-year-old former congressman unanimously in the face of claims in other quarters that he once angled for Communist support. Javits called them "political smears."

Wagner, 46, was a shoo-in for nomination by the 1,143 delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

British, French Officials Fail To Cope With Crisis

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 10 (AP)—The prime ministers of Britain and France sought without success today a new idea to cope with the intensifying Suez crisis. Britain had summarily rejected Egypt's newest counter-move and plunged into urgent conference with France.

The conference of Prime Minister Eden, French Premier Guy Mollet and their top foreign affairs advisers broke up shortly after Monday midnight.

The two government heads had been pondering for six hours over their next move on Suez.

Announcements

"No decisions have been reached," French Ambassador Jean Chauvel said as he left the meeting. "Another meeting will take place at 10:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EST)."

The two government heads reviewed the crisis in the light of the failure of the Menzies mission to persuade Egypt's President Nasser to agree to international control of the canal he nationalized July 26.

Nasser's move yesterday was a surprise call for talks by nations of all users of the canal in an effort to settle the dispute peacefully. The British immediately shrugged off Nasser's proposal.

Grand Jury To Investigate Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10 (AP)—A special Dauphin County grand jury will investigate charges of conspiracy, bribery and corruption as part of a 19½ million dollar plot to fleece the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The Dauphin County Court ordered the probe on the recommendation of Dist. Atty. Huette F. Dowling and the request of Atty. Gen. Herbert B. Cohen, acting in behalf of Gov. Leader.

Feeling

"The court feels that the matter that has been brought to our attention should be investigated fairly and impartially and the truth established," said acting President Judge William H. Neely. Neely, after a whispered conversation with Judge Walter R. Sohn on the bench, announced the decision in a crowded courtroom.

There was no indication as to when the probe will start.

Cummings Expires

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Homer S. Cummings, U.S. Attorney general during the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, died today. He was 86.

Adlai, Estes Lash Out At Eisenhower

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson got a roaring reception here tonight as he told delegates to the New York State Democratic Convention that the Eisenhower administration is masquerading under "a false front."

The delegates, packed into the Palace Theatre here, cheered, applauded, whistled and rang bells for the Democratic presidential nominee.

And they cheered loudly, as well, for Sen. Estes Kefauver, his vice-presidential running mate who described Eisenhower as "an aggressive fighter for special interests."

Theater

The theatre, which seats 3,500, was filled with 2,286 delegates and alternates, plus others who were able to crowd in.

Stevenson was introduced to the party rally, which earlier nominated Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City as the Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, by Gov. Averell Harriman.

Harriman called Stevenson "a man with the candor, courage and wisdom" to give the country world "prestige and leadership."

And Harriman, who lost the presidential nomination after a bitter fight, also told the convention:

"We don't have to apologize for our candidate for president. We are proud of him."

Meanwhile, Roger Stevens of New York, co-chairman of the Stevenson-Kefauver Finance Committee, told a regional Democratic conference, at Hartford, Conn., the party has set a fund-raising goal of seven million dollars.

Leader Calls For Observance

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10 (AP)—Gov. Leader today asked Pennsylvanians to observe Oct. 5 and April 9 next year as fall and spring arbor and bird days by planting trees and shrubbery "stressing the value and importance of trees, forests, birds and animal life to our well being."

Plane Lost In Center Of Typhoon

TOKYO, Sept. 10 (AP)—A U.S. weather plane with 16 men aboard was reported missing tonight in the Sea of Japan just as its target—destructive Typhoon Emma—was breaking up off Soviet Siberia.

The typhoon, one of the worst of the current season, took 55 lives and caused millions of dollars in property losses in Japan, Okinawa, South Korea and the Philippines.

The missing plane, a four-engine RB50, was assigned to measure wind velocity and air pressure inside Typhoon Emma. It was last heard from 200 miles northwest of Nagata, roughly halfway between the coasts of Japan and Siberia.

Six officers and 10 airmen were aboard the plane, which was based on Yokota in southwest Honshu. Its job was to help find the course of the typhoon by entering its storm center and dropping automatic data-collecting instruments.

Grim Climax

Disappearance of the plane provided a grim climax to Typhoon Emma's weeklong journey of death and destruction.

The death toll included 34 in Japan, three in Okinawa including a U.S. military policeman, one in South Korea, six in the Philippines. It was blamed for the freak ocean current which drowned 11 U.S. Marines off Okinawa last Wednesday.

The injured included 130 in Japan, 58 in Okinawa including 15 Americans, seven in Korea. Typhoon Emma, once 600 miles wide with 155 m.p.h. center winds, wrought millions of dollars worth of property damage to buildings, ruined vital crops on Okinawa and left thousands of Okinawans homeless.

It pounded Japan with 15 to 22 inches of rain Sunday and today, flooding 4,300 houses and thousands of acres of valuable rice paddies. It swallowed up 54 ships in Japanese waters and several others off South Korea, Coast Guard officials said.

Forecasters at the U.S. Air Force Tokyo Weather Central said Emma had shrunk to 80 miles diameter with 80 m.p.h. wind and soon would drop from the typhoon class to a 50-75 m.p.h. gale.

"It looks like she (Emma) hit the coast right at Valentine (Siberia) and is being torn up by that large coastal mountain range, with one part going inland and one up the coast," said the forecaster.

Scientist Succumbs

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP)—Dr. Benjamin M. Dugger of Pearl River, N. Y., who retired from college teaching at 70 and went on to discover the "wonder drug" aureomycin, died today at the age of 84.

Five Former Officials Of Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission Face Hearing

NEWTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Five former officials of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, all accused of conspiracy in the handling and spending of the agency's funds, go before a Bucks County Justice of the peace tomorrow.

The hearing, postponed from Aug. 16, will determine whether the Commonwealth has obtained sufficient evidence against the five men to have them held for grand jury action.

Bond

All are now free in bond of $2,500 each.

Eight States Hold Primaries

By The Associated Press

VOTERS in eight states ballot today in primary elections certain to attract plenty of national attention in this campaign season.

This will be the last big turnout of voters before the Nov. 6 presidential election. And both parties are sure to see all sorts of significance in the results.

The week's round of voting actually began yesterday, when Maine held the first general election of 1956 to name a governor, three House members, and state officials.

Tomorrow Georgia holds a primary featuring the selection of a successor to retiring Sen. Walter George.

Today's primaries are in Minnesota, Utah, Colorado, Wisconsin, Vermont, Washington, Arizona and New Hampshire.

In Wisconsin, Sen. Alexander Wiley seeks nomination to a fourth term over opposition from the state Republican organization. The 72-year-old senator is challenged by Rep. Glenn R. Davis—the organization choice—and Howard Boyle Jr., Milwaukee attorney.

Support Dike

Both Wiley and Davis have told the voters they're enthusiastic supporters of President Eisenhower.

Wiley goes into the contest the seeming favorite, as does State Sen. Henry W. Maier in the Democratic Senate race. Maier is opposed by Elliot N. Walstead, a former state party chairman.

Incumbent House members who seek re-election are without opposition in the Wisconsin primary, which also decides nominations for state and county offices and the State Legislature.

The big Colorado race marks the first bid for elective office by Charles F. Brannan, who authored the Brannan farm plan while serving as former President Truman's secretary of agriculture. Brannan is seeking the Democratic Senate nomination and is opposed by former Rep. John A. Carroll of Denver, a onetime Truman aide.

Tillich Urges Assistance For Oppressed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ernest Tillich, a West German anti-Communist leader, told a congressional committee today "the best allies the free world has are those people who are oppressed behind the Iron Curtain."

He said the "Western World should 'come to the support of elements behind the Iron Curtain which are dedicated to the idea of freedom.'"

Regard

Such people regard international conferences, where Western and Soviet leaders sit down at a table together, as a "betrayal of their fight for freedom," he added.

Tillich spoke through an interpreter at a public hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), committee chairman, said Tillich is leader "of what is undoubtedly the most effective resistance organization functioning beyond the Soviet Iron Curtain."

Order

Milner at that time ordered Miller held for grand jury action on five of 10 counts filed against him by the State of Pennsylvania.

The bulk of the charges against the five, actually filed jointly by the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, deal with salaries and expense accounts which it is charged were illegally received.

Members of the commission are composed equally of persons from both states, with most of them appointed by the governors.

Republicans Lead For Other Posts

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 10 (AP)—Maine, long deemed a Republican fortress, today returned its Democratic governor to a second term.

Booish-looking Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, 42, trounced GOP House Speaker Willis A. Trafton to become the first governor of his party to be re-elected in a presidential year—at least since the Civil War.

In 468 of 630 precincts Muskie had 82,660 votes to Trafton's 66,067.

Republicans re-elected congressman Clifford G. McIntire in the 3rd District and their candidates were ahead, but inconclusively, in the first and second.

Trafton, a 37-year-old novice at statewide campaigning, didn't do so well, on the basis of three fourths of the precincts, as Gov. Burton M. Cross did in losing to Muskie two years ago.

At that time, in 474 precincts, Cross had polled 65,134 votes to Muskie's 75,523.

Muskie's campaign slogan "One good term deserves another" apparently had drawing power with a lot of Republicans this year.

Record

He campaigned on his record, pointing in particular to industrial development sparked by a new state department he succeeded in creating. He also said that the "dignity and self-respect" of Maine's people required continuation of two-party government.

Trafton, like all the major GOP candidates, called for a Republican victory to encourage President Eisenhower, help him win re-election in November and bring him a GOP-controlled Congress.

The President himself wrote that Maine Republicans "should work for a complete Republican victory" in their state.

Today's closest race, as predicted, appeared to be in the 2nd District.

There Republican State Sen. James L. Reid led Democratic State Chairman Frank M. Coffin by less than 4,000 votes. Their totals: in 167 of 210 precincts, were: Reid 33,044 and Coffin 29,421. Much of Androscoggin County, which includes heavily Democratic Lewiston, still was unreported.

Reid and Coffin fought to succeed GOP congressman Charles P. Nelson, who is retiring.

On Heels

As in 1954, Democrat James C. Oliver was right on the heels of the veteran Rep. Robert Hale in the 1st District.

In 83 of the district's 156 precincts Oliver had 14,117 votes to 13,662 for Hale, who seeks an eighth consecutive term.

The unofficially tabulated returns came from all of the state's 16 counties and contained considerable city wards.

The first cities to report their full counts were shipbuilding Bath, carried by Muskie 2,169-1,438, and Hallowell, the state's smallest city, which also went to the governor, 724-504.

Polls generally closed at 7 p.m. Places with fewer than 300 people had the privilege of closing two hours earlier.

'Johnny Dio' Makes Plea Of Innocence

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Labor racketeer John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi and four fellow defendants entered innocent pleas today to an indictment for conspiracy in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

U. S. Dist. Judge Sidney Sugarman denied motions for reduction of the $100,000 bail for each.

Defendants

The defendants appearing in court with Dioguardi were Leo Telvi, Charles Salvatore Carlinio, Dominico Bando and Joseph Peter Carlinio, no relation to the other Carlinio.

Before the five men appeared in court, Sugarman swore in a special grand jury. U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said that the panel might assist the regular jury in further investigation of some phases of the Riesel case.

Riesel was blinded when an assailant threw acid in his face as he walked on a midtown street the night of last April 5.

Nike Rockets Compared To Telephone Service At Meeting Of East Borough Exchange Club

MAJOR AMERICAN cities now are "ringed" by Nike installations, which make it virtually impossible for enemy planes to escape interception, members of the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club were told last night.

The statement was made by Eugene D. Lavery, supervisor of customer information for the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, at an Exchange Club meeting at the Mountain Lake House.

The use of rockets as military weapons by the British in attacking Fort Melleny during the War of 1812, inspired an American prisoner of war on one of the attacking ships to write of the "dawn's early light" and the "rocket's red glare" — phrases now immortal, Lavery said.

Today, the "rocket's red glare" lives again in one of the mightiest weapons in America's arsenal of defense — the guided missile Nike, Lavery continued. Nike installations now ring our major cities and no enemy plane can fly so high, so fast or so evasively as to escape an intercepting Nike missile, Lavery said.

If you're wondering why the Telephone should be interested in guiding such missiles when its logical interest lies in guiding telephone calls, Lavery added, the two jobs are not so dissimilar as you might think.

Here Lavery described briefly one of the latest advances in the telephone are known as Customer Direct Distance Dialing which, when it becomes nationwide, will make it possible for anyone to dial out-of-town calls straight through to the called telephone anywhere in the United States and Canada without the aid of an operator.

Then, with the aid of several interesting exhibits, Lavery developed that essentially the same skills and techniques and, in many instances, the same electrical components used in selecting automatically out of the 58 million telephones in service in the United States and Canada the one telephone being called on an out-of-town call, now make it possible for Nike missiles to seek out and destroy hostile aircraft high in the sky above us. Using small-scale models of a typical Nike battery, Lavery explained how this was done.

Designed and developed by a service-industry team comprised of Army Ordnance Corps Engineers, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, the Western Electric Co. and the Douglas Aircraft Co., a decade of guided missile research, development, engineering and manufacturing effort has gone into making Nike an effective weapon, Lavery said.

Dedicated in peace to the never-ending task of providing for the people of America the finest telephone service in the world, the Bell System has been engaged in literally hundreds of national defense projects including war communications equipment, radar, submarine warfare, rocket and guided missile design, electronic tubes, electronic computers and countless other phases of defense production, Lavery concluded.

Co-program chairman for the meeting were Larry Schoenberger and Thomas Kistler. Schoenberger introduced Lavery, while Kistler presented Judge Fred W. Davis, Monroe County Civil Defense director, who spoke on the work of Civil Defense.

Gilbert Dunning, club president, presided.

Court Puts Two Men On Probation

Action Taken Following Guilty Pleas

TWO MEN charged with burglary were placed on probation in Monroe County Court yesterday after entering guilty pleas before President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Kenneth Morgan, 24, of Bangor, was placed on three years probation after he admitted burglarizing three Monroe County establishments in 1953, accompanied by another person. He also was ordered to pay the costs of prosecution, make any necessary restitution and attend church regularly.

Morgan admitted breaking into the garage of Van D. Yetter, Jr. in Marshalls Creek, in March, 1953, and taking a chain saw, valued at $318. On May 31, of that year, he broke into both the Ernest L. Price and Raymond Butz service stations in Tannersville.

The defendant was indicted in May, 1954, on the Monroe County charges. However, on Feb. 28 of that year, he was committed to the New Jersey State Reformatory at Bordentown. He was returned here last July following his release in New Jersey.

Officials in Bucks and Northampton counties still have detainers on Morgan for burglaries in those counties.

Pay Costs
Aubrey Willard Franklin, 28, now of East Stroudsburg, was placed on two years probation, and ordered to pay the costs of prosecution, after he pleaded guilty to stealing articles valued at $50 from the Blue Mountain Camps in December, 1955.

That same month, Franklin was committed to the New Jersey State Prison after being convicted of crimes in the neighboring state. He was returned here following his release.

James Jacobs, an employee of a Pocono resort, entered a guilty plea to a three-year-old charge of operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. Sentence was suspended, and he was placed on one-year probation.

The court was informed that in June, 1953, Jacobs was involved in an accident in Stroudsburg while driving another person's auto. A grand jury subsequently indicted him on driving without the owner's consent.

A short time later, Jacobs left the State for Florida, and $400 bail was forfeited, the court was told. He was arrested on the old charge when he returned here last month.

Francis H. Nordmark was ordered to pay $5 a week for the support of one child after appearing in court on a fornication and bastardy charge. He also was ordered to pay $100 lying-in expenses, and the costs of prosecution.

In non-support cases, Robert Dickson was ordered to pay $10 a week for the support of two children, and Randall Angle was ordered to pay $20 weekly for two youngsters.

Dale Lallier was placed on three years probation, and ordered to pay a $150 fine and costs, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended or revoked. The fine is to be paid in bi-weekly payments of $40 each.

Northampton Man Granted New Trial

BANGOR — Northampton County Court yesterday granted a Bangor RD 1 man a new trial on morals charges.

Andre Pilloud's motion for new trial was granted, the court said, because the Commonwealth did not establish the dates on which the alleged offenses took place.

The alleged victims, girls nine and 10 years old, were unable to give the exact dates of the offenses when they testified in the trial before Judge Carleton T. Woodring in February.

Counts

Pilloud was convicted of open lewdness and corrupting the morals of minors, but was acquitted of sodomy. A charge of indecent assault was withdrawn for lack of evidence.

He was the caretaker at a lake resort near Mount Bethel in 1954 when the alleged offenses took place. The girls, then seven and eight, lived nearby.

Crosby Still Denies Rumor

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10 (AP)—Bing Crosby said today it was news to him that he has asked for and received a baptismal certificate, a Roman Catholic Church practice that would indicate he planned remarriage.

Reached by phone at his Hayden Lake, Idaho, summer home, the crooner commented: "I don't know anything about it."

Story

His comment came after he was read a Tacoma story which stated that an unidentified priest there said Crosby had requested and received his baptismal certificate.

Bing was born in Tacoma in 1904.

Over the weekend, the Hollywood rumor mill buzzed with reports that Bing planned to marry actress Kathy Grant, for two years his one and only girl friend.

Three Replace Egypt Council

CAIRO, Sept. 10 (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser's nine-man Revolution Council — the "collective leadership" of Egypt for four years — has been replaced by three "Wise Men" who help Nasser make up his mind in a crisis.

Last week during the Suez Canal talks three men came to the fore as advisers on whom the President leans most heavily. They are the army commander in chief, Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer; Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi; and presidential aide, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry.

Clique

The Revolution Council consisted of a clique of 9 to 14 military officers who led the revolution against King Farouk in 1952. They took decisions by a majority vote in long discussions, decisions that had the force of law until Nasser introduced the new constitution on June 23 of this year.

After the constitution was ratified, the Revolution Council theoretically was dissolved, although most members still held high posts. The past week has indicated that the group has ceased to exist in fact as well as in theory.

Thorough Probe Should Be Hastened Into Charges Against Pike Officials

The Leader administration in Harrisburg has leveled serious charges against several former and present members and employees of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The governor contends the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co. received contracts for work on the Northeast Extension of the turnpike without competitive bidding. Furthermore, says Leader, the firm defrauded the commission of some $9,000,000 for "unnecessary" work connected with the filling of abandoned mines under the extension near Scranton.

Operations of the commission had been under domination of the Republicans until the Leader administration took over control some months ago. Thomas J. Evans, a former Republican turnpike commission chairman, is the uncle of one officer of the Manu-Mine firm, Charles W. Stickler Jr., and the father of another officer, the late Richard H. Evans.

Stickler has denied any wrongdoing; in fact, he declared the disputed contract was approved by two Leader appointees, Turnpike Commission Chairman G. Kranklin McSorley and Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler.

The matter of whether the work was necessary or unnecessary is something for qualified engineers to debate. But that is of only secondary importance in this particular instance.

What must be determined is whether there was any corruption associated with the award of the contract and, if so, to what extent and by whom. It is not enough to investigate the obvious looseness by which the commission was operated; illegal collusion and other criminal practices must be proved if any permanent good is to come out of the probe.

Then should follow legislative action to tighten the regulations governing the commission's activities and the prosecution of everyone believed to be guilty of corruption of any kind. The inquiry should be thorough and without delay.

Divided Berlin Points Up Advantages Of Free Enterprise Economic System

There is no place in the world where the differences between the economics of Communism and the economics of free enterprise are so vividly illustrated as in Berlin. Half the city is under total Communist rule; the other half has representative government and a competitive economy to match.

Writing in the New York Times Magazine, Harry Gilroy points up the contrast in an excellent way. First, he takes us on a tour of a Communist department store. Its three floors, he writes, "... contain more second-rate merchandise than all the 'fire sale' shops in Manhattan: sleazy cloth, loose or protruding seams, clumsy leather goods often made of something that is not quite leather, furniture with poisonous green and dispiriting brown upholstery. Some departments are really melancholy in their poverty."

Then he takes us to a store in West Berlin: "This turns out to be a department store in the style to which Americans are quite content to be accustomed. . . . There is quality and quantity, all the usual things that are required for a decent existence, and choice enough to give individuality a play."

At this point Mr. Gilroy states a significant fact. East Berliners are eager to exchange their hard-earned money for West Berlin currency, even though they must do so at a very unfavorable rate. The reason: "... They want to shop in the Allied sector."

We Americans, who are used to the very best in retail service whether we patronize a big store or some little independent shop, would do well to wonder occasionally what makes that kind of service possible. It is this: A free, competitive system of making and selling things, in which the rewards go to those who do the best job and where the government wisely keeps its hands off.

Kennan Misses Point In Raising Question About U. S. Rejection Of Chinese Red Bid

It is impossible in a moral world to separate politics from moral law, although the Machiavellians, who reject absolutes of any kind, refuse to accept the moral law as a guide for political action.

They favor a pragmatic expediency, but pragmatism can lead to disaster because what works today may be very unsound tomorrow, whereas certain fundamental principles, such as "Thou Shalt Not Kill," are everlasting.

George F. Kennan makes the point in an article that there is little hope for better relations between the United States and Red China. Then he adds:

"... I have never shared and cannot now share in the savage enthusiasm many Americans have worked up over the cause of keeping the Chinese Communists out of the United Nations. I fail to see the logic of this position or to understand the overriding importance people attach to the question. It is not my understanding that we ever objected on principle to the inclusion of Communist states in the United Nations."

This attitude completely ignores the nature of the Korean War. Red China was declared to be a United Nations police action and into which the Chinese Communists intervened with the object of defeating the United Nations forces. Eventually they put up a campaign to force themselves upon the United Nations. Their attitude could not be translated otherwise than an attempt to shoot their way into the United Nations. That cannot be other than an immoral act which needs to be defeated so that no other nation may have a precedent for dealing with a United Nations question by the use of force. As a matter of fact since the Korean War, the Arab nations have resorted to force in their attitude toward Israel and the United Nations has been able to do nothing about it.

Since the Korean War, Red China has held a number of Americans as prisoners. Some were soldiers, some civilians, some missionaries. Negotiations for the release of these prisoners have been continuous for more than a year without satisfactory results. The Red Chinese are treating us contemptuously. It is impossible to deal with a nation that has no honor, no dignity, no truth. Until a new government, based on moral principles, comes into existence in Peking, there is no reason why we should deal with what is there now.

Mr. Kennan says: "... And to scratch around now among Communist regimes to establish relative degrees of iniquity, entitling some to membership and others not, is an undertaking for which I personally have no stomach."

But we do not need to scratch around for relative degrees of iniquity. The iniquity asserts itself and there are just some things that are intolerable in nations as they are in man. One of them is lying; another is arrogance. We know that Red China lied when her propagandists throughout the world spread the story of germ warfare. Some may shrug it off as a clever press agent's stunt. It was a lie, a deliberate, cold-blooded lie designed to picture the United States as a barbarous, inhuman nation. That lie was so widespread that it is still believed. It was used as propaganda even by the Communist Party in this country. It is not necessary for us to condone that lie no matter how much satisfaction it would give other nations if we accepted that miserable publicity campaign as one of those things. We are morally on sound ground when we reject a nation that stoops to such methods.

I think that George Kennan misses the point altogether when he raises this question as he did in this article in the socialist magazine, "The New Leader." The issue is not whether when we vote a nation into the United Nations we ipso facto approve of that nation and its way of life. Of course, we do not. The American people do not approve of Tito's dictatorship, or of Nasser's. Americans do not approve of Franco's monarchism. But in the case of Red China, the American attitude is not one of lack of approval; it is a matter of total rejection. That is why Congress has so often voted resolutions against the seating of Red China in the United Nations, threatening to withdraw the United States if Red China is admitted. There does not seem to be any moral alternative.

The Once Over

Cinderella Makes Good Rodgers & Hammerstein are to do their first TV musical and have chosen the Cinderella fable.

We understand they are already auditioning mice, pumpkins and lizards, and even countering trouble due to the fact so many mice are playing the roles of husbands in the musical.

There are lizard difficulties, because, since it was learned R & H planned to do Cinderella, every lizard has been signed up by a smart agent determined to get big money for being turned into a footman. (We even heard of a pumpkin haunting the Hammerstein offices with its clippings.)

Further complications are possible, we fear, before Cinderella gets on TV. There can be an issue over whether the stage hands or electricians union have jurisdiction when eight mice are turned into dappled gray horses. In fact there are reports of a Wizards' Union which may contend it alone has full authority over fairy godmothers and magic wands. How about James Caesar Petrillo? Well, we don't know for certain, but we suspect he will make the music at the king's ball pretty expensive. The big fight will probably come over fairy godmothers, however. If fairy godmothers are allowed to go around TV studios, supplying gorgeous costumes, dappled mistresses, footmen, coachmen and gorgeous raiment by merely saying some mumbo jumbo and wiggling a stick, a lot of people can be brown out of work. Not a costume designer, wardrobe mistress or property lady would be safe. And fancy the effect on those TV "spectaculars" . . . all Max Liebman would need would be one godmother with a good sense of timing. There could be trouble ahead with Cinderella unable to get to the ball without crossing a picket line. And with the handsome young prince stymied by a roadblock in his search for a woman whose foot fits the glass slipper.

The whole project calls for super planning, with the sensational effects of which video is capable. Indeed a sextette of fairy stepmothers who force Cinderella to mop the floors, wash the dishes, sift the ashes and do all the dirty work around the house while they wear the richest finery and have fun singing new Rodgers & Hammerstein numbers, including "Some Enchanted Kitchen," "There's Nothing Like a Wand," "Ball Hi-Ho!" and "I'm Gonna Wash That Stepmother Right Out Of My Hair." Possibly only one godmother will be used, in accordance with the fairy tale, but if so she will change the mice and pumpkins into a royal coach-and-six in a swim suit UNDER WATER.

Cinderella's flight from the ballroom and the prince's search could be one of the most exciting searches ever seen on any TV program and we would suggest Joe Friday of Dragnet as a guest star.

Adlai Stevenson is for an end to the draft, unless he can be assured it will take Harry Truman at once . . .

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE Red China Press Visit Should Be Permitted

Sometimes it seems that nobody in the State Department understands newspaper people. Representative journalists have recently been invited by Red China to come on over and see them, not sometime, but real soon. Newsmen were eager to go.

The State Department says, No! Secretary Dulles refused to issue passports for this foreign coverage, and the Department is making clucking noises about "safety" and "this-sort-of-thing-just-can't-be-done."

There are strict rules governing travel into countries not recognized by our own. Rules are made to remain unbroken. Certainly we are not on the best terms with Red China. Not on terms of any kind. So long as Mao's government refuses to release American prisoners now held in Chinese prisons, for one thing, the United States will never countenance its recognition. Then, we have good reason to suspect much hanky-panky going on between certain of our allies and Communist China. Lacking the means to protect American citizens daring to venture there (even by Communist invitation), our State Department feels that newsmen better stay safely at home.

A "free" press implies more than merely news-gathering when and where it is convenient and comfortable. Real journalists think first of their mission, last of personal safety. Getting the story, writing the story and filing the story are not merely means of earning a living. When men or women have the kind of minds disciplined to impartiality, trained in fact-finding, educated in political and cultural history of particular countries, and dedicated to the task of relating experiences as truthfully as they know how—they are not a breed to quail at discomfort, dangers or dictators. They are not a breed to remind of rules and red tape when the "right to know" is a question. It wasn't news to the press that if a toe were stubbed on the China junket, our Navy would not steam to the rescue. Nor was it deterrent to realize that no American Embassy was on hand to cash checks, recommend sight-seeing trips, quick laundries and approved restaurants. They were well aware of risks, they'd taken many a one before.

Government officials said, shucks, reporters would see and hear only what the Reds chose to reveal—and what good would that be? Might as well send for a shipload of propaganda leaflets printed in Red ink.

Our working press hasn't choked up on propaganda yet. It hasn't failed to look sharp, see plenty, and report the fine-edged facts, as yet. It never writes or reads scared, either.

So passports, maestro—please! We have journalists of high competence and high courage. Without their knowledge, travels, and observations in print, we would know precious little about this world we live in.

Hurricane Research Data Gathered By New Project

(Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column today is on the very timely and urgent subject of hurricanes, and the new measures and devices being used for the first time by the Weather Bureau to cope with these fearful devastators.)

By Norman R. Hagen
Meteorologist, U. S. Weather Bureau

Washington, Sept. 10 — The most concentrated and ambitious research attack ever made on hurricane formation and development is being launched this year from a base at West Palm Beach, Florida.

This attack, scheduled to last three years and called "National Hurricane Research Project," employs or consults the foremost experts in the world on tropical storms, and is directed by Robert Simpson, veteran Weather Bureau meteorologist.

The National Hurricane Research Project (NHRP) was conceived as a result of public clamor for action following the disastrous hurricane seasons of 1954 and 1955, which cost the lives of more than 400 people and caused property damage amounting to more than $2,000,000,000, mostly in the Middle and North Atlantic states.

Director Robert Simpson's deep interest in hurricanes dates back to his boyhood in Corpus Christi, Texas, when a 1919 hurricane inundated that city and took the lives of 200 of his fellow townsmen. Under Simpson's direction, the NHRP has drawn up detailed plans to study the birth, structure, and movements of hurricanes. This means tackling a giant problem, for a hurricane expends more energy in one minute than has been developed in electric power by all generation sources in the United States in the past fifty years.

This research project, now scheduled for only 30 months, may run as long as five years. What the scientists call the "data-collection and aircraft investigation phase" has already begun.

Three instrument-laden aircraft, two B-50's and one B-47, supplied and staffed by the Air Force, will probe into every tropical storm to collect a mass of weather data from in and near the hurricane center and at all flying levels up to 45,000 feet.

Aerial reconnaissance of hurricanes is not new. It began as an aid to forecasting during World War II and has been continued ever since by Air Force and Navy planes. The three aircraft of the NHRP—with some $300,000 worth of delicate meteorological instruments aboard—are the first outfitted expressly to collect such hard-to-get data on hurricanes as precise wind direction and speed, sudden pressure changes, humidity and temperature variations, rainfall patterns, water and air temperatures, and much other meteorological data never before observed or recorded.

All information will be automatically recorded in flight in digital form on punch cards, and this will be ready for scientific evaluation immediately after the planes return to the headquarters base at West Palm Beach.

The collection of data from the aircraft will be supplemented by a dense network of 30 rawinsonde stations operating in the breeding ground of many West Indian hurricanes—the Caribbean Sea. Making up this vast improved network are stations supervised by the Joint Long-Range Proving Ground at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida; stations of the U. S. Navy and the Air Weather Service; and stations of foreign countries. The governments of Mexico, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Netherlands Antilles, French West Indies, British West Indies, and Colombia are all cooperating in the establishment of these new observation stations.

The stacks of data collected daily will be microscopically studied and analyzed by the NHRP group of 30 meteorologists and technicians at West Palm Beach, who will have the help of consulting meteorologists from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Chicago, Florida State University, Miami University, New York University, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution and other foreign and domestic institutes interested in tropical meteorology.

A unique and ambitious phase of the research program will be the launching of rockets to photograph the complete cloud system of the hurricane and its immediate environment.

The rockets will carry two million picture cameras that will take continuous pictures during the 100 mile ascent from the launching base on the East Coast of the United States. The hurricane rocket program is being supervised by the Office of Naval Research and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, with technical advice from the Naval Research Laboratory.

The National Hurricane Research Project also is cooperating with the Geophysics Research Directorate in constructing a balloon radio beacon, which they hope can be dropped into a hurricane and will stay aloft in the eye of the hurricane and thereby enable the storm to be tracked by electronic means from a shore station.

Most deaths inflicted by past tropical storms have resulted from floods and high seas occurring along the coast near the storm's center. Special research studies are being conducted at Weather Bureau offices in coastal states to develop new forecasting techniques for storm surges, high tides, and coastal area floods.

NHRP will also make the utmost of the high-powered hurricane detection radars installed this year by the Weather Bureau at Nantucket, Massachusetts and San Juan, Puerto Rico. One of these powerful radar sets was activated last year at Hatteras, North Carolina, just in time to pick up Hurricane Connie as it moved inland over North Carolina.

These giant, modern electronic "Paul Revere's" will supplement existing modified war surplus low-powered radar sets that now scan coastal waters from Texas to Massachusetts. Special camera equipment will photograph storm pictures of the radar scopes for later research studies into the changing rain cloud patterns of hurricanes.

The primary objective of the National Hurricane Research Project is improved forecasting, which will in turn result in reducing preventable loss of life and property.

Nierings Enjoy Big Weekend

By Jim Riley

Being grandparents is a tough job. The strain's terrific.

If you don't believe me, just ask Mr. and Mrs. George Niering, Secotrun.

Dr. William Niering, professor at Connecticut College for Women, and his wife, Cathy, became the proud parents of a seven-pound, four ounce son on Saturday.

The youngster was born on the birthday of Bill's grandfather, the late William Niering, who also lived in Secotrun.

Bill and Cathy now live in New London, Conn.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Sharon Peckatka, Tannersville, became the parents of a daughter, six pounds, 12 and one-half ounces, who was promptly named Sherry Ann.

The Peckatkas also have a son, Gregory, age two years.

Mrs. Peckatka, Annabelle to her friends, is a sister to Dr. Niering and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Niering.

It certainly was a full weekend. Speak of full weekends brings to mind the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Obitz, Shawnee-on-Delaware, face a busy few days.

Harry, known in golf circles throughout the United States, is scheduled to speak at a big rally of women's clubs in Baltimore today.

Helen and son Ben are slated to return to their home, Red Cloud, Neb. tomorrow.

No spare moments noted on the agenda.

Miss Ruth Bryson, well known second grade teacher at Poccano Consolidated School and a resident of the Tannersville-Cherry Lane section, had quite an experience the other day.

Miss Bryson was unpleasantly surprised when she parked her car in the garage and when leaving the automobile saw a large black bear crossing the road quite close.

The popular school teacher lost exactly no time in racing to the house and safety.

Paul "Doc" Lim, Stroudsburg High graduate in the class of 1955, is scheduled to resume college classes on Monday, Sept. 24. Lim will be a sophomore at Ursinus.

Charley Dieter, Snyderville, tried golf for the first time during his vacation last week. The result? A rabbit, pheasant and squirrel.

Three Railroads Study Merger Move

DL&W May Join With Erie, D&H

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 — Directors of the Erie Railroad, The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad and the Delaware and Hudson Railroad have appointed members from their respective boards to explore whether or not there are advantages in merging the three railroad properties. This was confirmed jointly by Paul W. Johnston, president of the Erie; Perry M. Shoemaker, president of the Lackawanna; and William White, president of the Delaware & Hudson, at a press conference held here today.

The rail presidents indicated there may be opportunities for economies and service improvements which present an obligation in the public interest to thoroughly explore the practical possibilities of combining the three railroads. "However," they said, "we have no preconceived ideas of what can or cannot be accomplished by such a merger. That is the purpose of making the study by the board members."

In a joint statement they said, "The managements of our respective roads are of the opinion that in view of the economic and competitive situations which exist today in the transportation field, the long-range future of the railroad industry and the service it can perform for the nation would be greatly improved and strengthened by merging railroad properties when it appears practical to do so. We believe the full-scale study which our directors are undertaking is a step in the right direction and is clearly in the public interest."

The announcement emphasized that only an exploratory study is to be made at this time. If the study develops that unification would be advantageous to all concerned, further steps will be taken to progress it.

"No detailed studies have been made as yet on the many aspects that will have to be considered from an operating, traffic, financial and legal standpoint," the announcement said, "but if there are any opportunities for creating a stronger railroad system through such a merger to the benefit of shippers and other people in the territory we serve, as well as the shareholders and investors of our respective companies, our directors want to have all of the facts on which to base a decision."

Any plan which might be agreed upon would have to be approved by the board of directors and the shareholders of each company and by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If the unification should become a reality, the three presidents indicated that the interest of all officers and employees would be protected in every possible way. Federal statutes and labor agreements provide the basis for taking care of employees displaced by railroad consolidations. They pointed out that past experience has demonstrated that because of the time required to conclude final merger proceedings, the displacement of employees would be minimized.

The Erie and Lackawanna have been engaged in joint operating studies for the past year to take advantage of immediate savings by coordinating existing facilities. Freight station operations have already been combined at Binghamton and Elmira, N. Y. Negotiations for joint dispatching of tugboats in New York harbor are actively under way. Effective October 13 the Erie will begin to operate its passenger trains, with the exception of rush-hour commuter trains, into the Lackawanna station at Hoboken instead of the present Erie station at Jersey City. This combination of passenger terminals, when completed, will save about $1 million a year for each road. Studies are also under way for joint freight yard operation at Buffalo, and the joint use of tracks between Corning and Binghamton.

Johnston and Shoemaker stressed that they plan to progress the coordination of these and similar duplicate operating facilities irrespective of the outcome of the corporate merger study. "As we announced when the studies were first started, those projects were undertaken for the economies we could put into effect right away and not with any intention of merging the properties," they said.

500 Auxiliary Police Needed

AN ADDITIONAL 500 auxiliary policemen are needed as quickly as possible by Monroe County's Civil Defense organization, it was announced last night by Paul M. Crown, executive director.

Mr. Crown stated that both men and women, 18 years or older, are urged to register for auxiliary police instruction.

An eight-week course will open tonight at the East Stroudsburg High School at 7:30. The instructor will be Capt. Arthur B. Jones of Scranton, former state police training instructor.

Desirable
Crown stated that husband-and-wife teams are especially desirable because one is usually available for service when the other is not.

Many sector and township organizations have been availing the opportunity to send members to receive this instruction, Crown said. Therefore, a good turnout is expected.

The C-D chief said that prospective auxiliary policemen may register at the opening of the first session.

The training is advantageous to members of all C-D branches and doubles their usefulness to the organization, Crown stated. It gives them additional authority and power. It is especially useful to wardens and auxiliary fire police.

Police Reserve Plans Meeting
THERE WILL be a joint meeting of the Monroe County Police Reserve and Auxiliary Auxiliary to-day at 7:30 p.m. at the East Stroudsburg Municipal Building.

The men are urged to arrive promptly at 7:30 in full uniform as a photographer has been engaged to take pictures of the organization.

Following the business meeting a luncheon will be served by the auxiliary.

Wickoff SHOPPER

The corsage I treasure more than perhaps any other I've ever had was presented me by Florence Predmore the other morning. It looked like a tiny red rosebud nestled among small green leaves. But I didn't wear it. It would have burned my eyes if I'd even touched it and then accidentally gotten my finger near my eye, because instead of being a flower it was a baby pepper from Florence's prized pepper plant. She gave it to me for two reasons, she said—first for writing such an enthusiastic description of her tale wear, and second because "your tongue is so sharp when you abuse me all the time, I think you eat too much hot pepper on your pizza."

Obviously, in Florence's opinion, the gift of a hot pepper is the easiest way to keep pizza between friendly feuders.

From tale to towel . . . and they can be beautiful too! Hattie Walters, the temptress, realizes that I can never resist beautiful kitchen towels, and she had a purely mercenary gleam in her eye when she descended upon me the other morning armed with a dozen different varieties. I fooled her though . . . said, "Look here, Hattie, I'll write about 'em but I'm not buying, contest or no contest."

There are several entrancing styles . . . one called Venetian Glass, one Early American glass, and the other Polka Dot. The latter has a white background, red interwoven (overcast embroidery) edge, red polka dots and a carfree splatteration of butterflies, flowers, and clover. There is also a Christmas towel of much the same coloring, with gay ornaments suited to the Yuletide. The Venetian Glass towel comes in beige, figured in green; gray and rose, green and blue (very unusual and striking) and copper with gray. The towels are 100, and there are Polka Dot table cloths in sizes 34 x 54 and 54 x 70 at 3.95 and 5.95 respectively.

Throwing the towel in the ring can be a very impressive gesture, no doubt about it . . . and whirling it around the sink can be exhilarating fun. No wonder dish washing and drying are my favorite tasks!

And while we're talking about table cloths, I must mention the very lovely Tree of Life cloth that blends red, aqua, green, and mustard yellow in a traditional old design that many regard as a symbol of longevity and good fortune. The shades are unusual . . . the design is a ravishing over-all pattern . . . and the significance makes it a very apt choice for bridal shower or wedding anniversary gifting.

I suppose I could write more today, but it's Saturday morning and 10:30 as I type, and at 11 o'clock I hope to see the John McNeill-Mariclaire Coleman wedding at St. Luke's church. John has been the Wickoff Shopper program's announcer for several years, and I consider him one of my finest friends . . . and while I don't know Mariclaire, her mother is one of my long-time acquaintances for whom I have a wealth of respect. I hear from our gift wrapping center that they've received dozens of gifts from Wickoff's . . . which is one of the happiest starts any bride and bridegroom can have.

LODEN COATS

What is a "Loden Coat"? A style? A color? A fabric? Loden has a long history, dating back to the 11th Century. Today, it is an important fashion. It will be worn by the college man, as well as the college girl. It is fast becoming the classic campus coat!

Austrian peasants made a rough fabric from the yarns spun from mountain sheep wool. Then they shrank the fabric until it was very dense. This served to protect them from the rugged mountain weather.

The original coats were muted olive cast green or drab greys. These colors are popular now but you will also see Loden coats in a variety of bright colors. The style is three-quarter length, toggle-fastened.

The popular car coats are a variation of the original Loden coat.

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DRYCLEANING, Silver Spring, Maryland, advises that if you purchase one of these coats, give it the proper care. It deserves heavy woolen fabrics used in this fashion-trend have a way of attracting moths without your being aware of it. Consult your drycleaner concerning the treating of your Loden coat with a moth-repellent. Wash when you have it cleaned, and don't forget to keep these colors bright with regular drycleaning.

Enlistees under the Six-Month Training Program can join their local reserve unit and volunteer for immediate training or join the Marine Corps Reserve at their local Marine Corps Recruiting Station located in the Stroudsburg Post Office Building and be immediately assigned to active duty for six months.

Those selecting immediate active duty will be integrated with regular Marines for their recruit training at either the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. or San Diego, Calif.

During the first few weeks at the recruit training center, six-month enlistees are tested for aptitudes to determine their assignments. Requests for preferred duty assignments are considered on the individual's demonstrated ability and the needs of the Corps.

Serrill To Become Executive Director of Washington Publishers Association In Fall

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Theodore A. Serrill, who has been with the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association for 13 years, will become Executive Director of the Washington (D. C.) Publishers Association on November 1. A successor to Serrill will be chosen at the next meeting of the PNPA Executive Committee scheduled on the eve of the association's convention in Philadelphia, October 11-13. Rolland L. Adams, president of PNPA and publisher of the Bethlehem Globe Times, has announced.

Serrill, general manager of PNPA since February, 1950, will succeed Peyton R. Evans, a Washington, D. C., attorney who is retiring after 16 years as executive head of the organization which represents the Washington, D. C., Post and Times Herald, and the Washington, D. C., Star. Serrill's first full-time newspaper work was on the News following his graduation from Penn State University in 1932.

He has just completed a term as president of Newspaper Association Managers, Inc., which comprises the executives of state, national and regional newspaper trade associations. He is scheduled for election to the board of the American Society of Association Executives, September 18, in New York City.

Born in Philadelphia, April 16, 1911, he was raised on a farm in Hershman Township, Montgomery County.

In addition to his five years employment with the Washington News, 1933-37, he spent one year as national advertising manager of the Charlotte, N. C., News, 1937-38, and five years with the Easton, Pa., Express, the latter part of which he served on the news desk, 1938-42. In late 1942 he became deputy director in charge of war loan promotion in the Third Federal Reserve District for the U. S. Treasury Department, directing the first four war loans in that capacity.

Married to Alice Marguerite (Peg) Ferner, native of Washington, D. C., he has two sons, Theodore M., a senior in journalism at Pennsylvania State University, and James Alan, a junior at Central Dauphin High School, Harrisburg.

Serrill is a member of the Poor Richard Club and the Pen and Pencil Club of Philadelphia; the Pittsburgh Press Club, and the Pittsburgh and Harrisburg Advertising Clubs; Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity of which he is state chairman; Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity; Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism society; Theta Kappa Phi, social fraternity; Rotary Club; Torch Club; Executive Club; Colonial Country Club, Harrisburg. He is a member and past president of Harrisburg Trade Association Executives; a past president of the Penn State Club of Harrisburg; and a past member of the Alumni Council of Pennsylvania State University; the Pennsylvania Society of New York; the Capitol Hill Club, Washington, D. C., and the National Association Executives Club, Washington, D. C.

He is a director of the Pennsylvania Welfare Forum; director, Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults; and managing director of the Mid-Atlantic Newspaper Services, Inc., a business corporation owned by PNPA; and past director of National Editorial Association.

He has served on several state-wide committees, including the chairmanship of a sub-committee of the Chesterman Committee; the Governor's Highway Safety Committee; Pennsylvania Tourist Advisory Committee; and the Pennsylvania Committee to Employ the Physically Handicapped. In 1952 he served as chairman of National Newspaper Week.

World Series To Open In National Park Oct. 3

Prices Same For Classic Of Baseball

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

TO SAY the least, Harry Warner will get the biggest opportunity of his professional baseball life when he reports to the Washington Senators training camp at Orlando, Fla., next spring.

It isn't often that a break comes along for a fellow who has given 10 years of his life to minor league baseball. Although Harry is still comparatively young as baseball players go, there is still not many who get a beckon call to the majors after sojourn of 10 in the minors.

But someone in the Senators front office must of like what he heard or saw because Harry's contract was purchased from the Milwaukee Braves for an undisclosed sum.

If any club but the Senators showed interest in first baseman Harry Warner we would say the road would be tough to travel. Established first guardians of the initial sack are on practically every club but the Nats.

Since Mickey Vernon left Washington, Charlie Dressen has had everybody trying out for first base but the batboy. Roy Seiders was there, Pete Runnels has been giving it a try and others have been coming and going practically all season.

The way is open for Warner to put his 6-foot, 3-inch, 190-pound frame on first. We'd like nothing better than to see the Redders native and resident perched atop the initial sack at Griffith Stadium in 1957.

Harold Freeman was unanimously elected manager of Bushkill of the Pocono Mountain League by team personnel Sunday. Freeman, who replaces Tommy Carmella, will pilot Bushkill through the remainder of the nine's participation in the PML runoffs.

Bushkill officials announced that league headquarters has been informed of the move.

Incidentally PML league secretary John Wernett of Saylorsburg has gone on record, stating, that the recent Strouds banquet was the first such fete that an official of the Pocono Mountain League wasn't invited to attend. "He also said," whenever a team in the loop has a banquet the league is usually represented at the affair.

Wernett said that other league officials also miffed.

Bangor High's football team was strengthened considerably Monday when Bobby Finelli, outstanding back, Bob Hill, veteran guard, and Earl Walters, outstanding performer on last year's Slater team, reported to Granville Evans for drills.

The addition of Finelli, Hill and Walters is expected to give Evans more punch on the line and in the backfield this season.

Moravian College coach, Rocco Calvo, former All-America halfback at Cornell a few years back, is counting on ex-Bangor High ace Rod Miller to share most of the backfield burden for the Greyhounds this year.

Miller, a mainstay in Moravian's 6-1-1 record last year, is a junior at the Bethlehem institution.

Next week action goes on a full scale on the scholastic grid with all but a few teams hitting the striped field in earnest. Topping the list, of course, are the Lehighites at Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg High at Slatington skirmishes Friday night.

Time Nears For 'Masked' Racing Nags

MIAMI, Fla., (U.P.)—The time may come when horse players will have to study the medical journals as earnestly as the racing form and when race track touts will breathe into your ear something like this:

"Bud, you better play that No. 3 horse. I hear he trains on nothing but pure Florida oxygen. These other nags get just regular air."

Machinery
If that time should ever come, a complicated little piece of machinery developed here may be partly responsible.

In describing it in a technical paper for a medical journal, its developers, M. E. Glasser and William O. Reed, used such terms as "respirator," "inspiratory pressure" and "jet nebulizer."

Basic Use
Basic use for it is in treating sickness in large animals. But the two men have studied its use on race horses.

What the machine does is supply oxygen to the pumping lungs of a horse just back from an exhausting trip around the track.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (U.P.)—Commissioner Ford Frick, following a 90-minute meeting with representatives of the leading pennant contenders, announced today the 1956 World Series will open in home park of the winning National League team on Wednesday, Oct. 3.

After the first two games, the teams will move to the American League park for three games and, if more are needed, they will return to the National League city for the next two in the best-of-seven series.

Prices for series tickets will be the same as last year. The figures, which include the federal tax but not any local city or state sales taxes, are $10 for a box seat, $7 reserved, $2 bleachers and $4 for standing room.

Start 1 P.M.

All games will start at 1 p.m. local time except on Sunday in New York which will be at 2 p.m.

The commissioner pointed out that if either Milwaukee or Cincinnati is in the series there will be an open day for the purpose of travel between the games in the National League park and those in Yankee Stadium, although Cleveland was represented at the meeting. It was regarded as a practical certainty that the New York Yankees will represent the American League in the series.

Thus if Milwaukee or Cincinnati opposes the Yankees, there will be series games on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 3 and 4 with Friday, Oct. 5 an open day. The games in Yankee Stadium will be on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Oct. 6, 7 and 8. Then Tuesday, Oct. 9, would be open, and the final two games, if necessary, would be Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 10 and 11.

No Open Games

If Brooklyn should oppose the Yankees there will be no open dates.

The commissioner also made provisions in case of a playoff in the National League. There will be a one-day break after the end of the playoffs and the beginning of the series unless the series opens in the city where the final playoff game takes place. In that case, the series will begin at National League rules stipulate a best-of-three playoff in the event of a season-ending tie.

While officially scheduled to open Oct. 3, the World Series could be delayed at least a day in event of a pennant playoff in the National League. In case of a two-team tie for the NL flag, setting up a best-of-three-game playoff, the commissioner said there would be a one-day break between the end of the playoff and the beginning of the series unless the playoff ends in the city where the series is scheduled to open. In that event, the series would begin the following day.

The series opener could be set back as much as six days should the NL pennant race end in a three-way tie, still a possibility. National League rules call for a double-elimination playoff in event of a three-way tie, which could consume five days, plus one more as a break before the series.

Japan Still Undefeated

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 10 (U.P.)—Japan remained the only unbeaten team in the 1956 Global World Series of Baseball by coming from behind today to upset the United States team, 6-3.

Jay Mason of the favored U.S. club, from Fort Wayne, Ind., gave up only one hit until the fifth inning. After one out in that inning, Tetsuo Tanaka singled to start a rally that resulted in two runs. Japan broke loose in the big sixth inning for four runs to tie the game and then went on to win its third straight tournament game. It was the first defeat for the U.S. squad.

THIS REDSKIN DIDN'T BITE DUST ON THIS ONE—Football is with us as the pros stage many exhibition games before they start their regular National Football League season. Here Leo Elter, Washington Redskins fullback, powers way over line for touchdown against Los Angeles Rams at L. A.

Evans Seeks Reserve Depth As Bangor Eyes Inaugural

By ARMEN WILLIAMS
Record Correspondent

BANGOR—The pressure is on in the Bangor Area High School football camp as plans are moving forward for the opening of the 1956 gridiron season with the Blue Bombers of Palmerton on the latter's field this coming Saturday. Coach Grady Evans when contacted last evening relative to the contest indicated that one of his big problems at this stage of the preparations is the matter of the lack of reserve strength.

A limited number of upper classmen are members of the squad this year, but a blossoming group of many sophomores and freshmen have now swelled the ranks to more than the limit set for players by the Bangor Area Joint School committee. The varsity and Jayvee squads have been limited in number to sixty aspirants and that total has been reached.

Team Bolstered

Yesterday the squad was bolstered by the return of back Bobby Finelli, one of the better runners in the Lehigh Valley during the past two seasons. Much is expected of this boy in the offensive department. He showed his heels to many a tackler in the 1955 season. Also, seen in uniform yesterday was Earl Walters, counted on heavily in pre-season planning to hold down one of the end positions this year. A bolster at guard will be found with the return of veteran Bob Hill just returned from a trip to Florida.

Although the squad, is on the light side, it is expected that the tackle positions will be held down with much heft. Here, Bangor will have Charlie Woolley, 235 pounds and possibly Barry Moore, 195 heavy-weight to present power to the offensive and strength to the defensive line.

No Early Split

Coach Evans does not plan to split his squad until after the second game of the season with Catawquaque, which will be played under the Bangor area on Friday evening, September 21.

Much emphasis has been placed on conditioning and timing of plays as well as the scrimmage sessions as a result the squad has rounded into very good condition. Scrimmage sessions were held yesterday and will also be held today before the tapering off process gets under way on Wednesday.

Workout Lineup

MONTREAL, Sept. 10 (U.P.)—Second baseman Mike Goliath of the pennant-winning Toronto Maple Leafs today was named the International League's Most Valuable Player for 1956.

Goliath, a member of Philadelphia's National League champion Whiz Kids of 1950, piled up 164 points in the annual balloting by the league Baseball Writers' Assn. Eddie Kaske, Rochester shortstop, was the runner-up with 152.

Hit 23 Homers

Goliath, 30, hit 23 home runs for the Leafs in his best one-season total in 10 years of organized baseball, in taking the award won last season by Montreal's Rocky Nelson.

Toronto Runs Into 5-Year Jinx

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toronto, the pennant-winning team in the International League race, runs into a 5-year jinx tonight as the Governor's Cup playoff gets under way.

The Maple Leafs meet fourth-place Montreal in the opener of the best-of-seven first-round series at Toronto, and no pennant winner has gone on to capture the playoffs since the 1951 Montreal team went all the way.

In the other game, third-place Miami travels to Rochester to meet the second-place Royals. After two games at Toronto and Rochester, the next three games if necessary will be played at Montreal and Miami.

Rochester
A year ago Montreal won the pennant, but Rochester won the playoffs after finishing the league season in fourth place. Rochester defeated Montreal, and Toronto

Cavaliers Lose Woody Mosteller

EAST STROUDSBURG High's grid hopes received a jolt last night when probable starting and Elwood (Woody) Mosteller came up with a hairline fracture of the hand in a workout last night at Memorial Stadium.

Mosteller, who was expected to start against Slatington High in the Cavaliers open on the Slaters gridiron Friday night, will be sidelined six weeks.

Wes Werkheiser, 165-pound 6-footer, will probably get the opening nod at Mosteller's flank position.

Crowe's Open DVL Season On Saturday

DEFENDING champions Crowe's Insurance of East Stroudsburg will usher in the 1956-57 Delaware Valley Bowling League when they travel to Easton Saturday to roll the Fleas Club in the circuit's inaugural.

The Fleas were runners-up to Crowe's in the standings last year.

Same Roster

Captain Jake Nitel announced that the same personnel which led Crowe's to the pennant last season will bowl again this year. They are Russell Bergman, Dick Andrews, Jack Darr, Tommy Sommers, John Javit and Nitel.

The DVL has a 28-week schedule through a straight season.

Officers
Officers of the league are Nitel, president; Paul Billard, Bethlehem, vice president; and John Sabo, Phillipsburg, N. J., secretary-treasurer.

Teams in the circuit come from Bethlehem, Easton, Phillipsburg and Stroudsburg.

Knee Injury Forces Penza To Quit Grid

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 10 (U.P.)—The National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers cut their squad to 40 men today, just seven under the league limit, as they reluctantly released Don Penza, former Notre Dame end.

Penza, who started as a defensive end and then was shifted to offensive guard, was released on advice of the Steelers physician. The ex-lrish star recently aggravated a knee injury and was told to give up football.

Fought Off Tears
Coach Walt Kiesling, who said Penza had a great chance to develop into a top offensive lineman, said Penza "was a boy who really wanted to play. He fought off tears when he heard the doctor's decision."

The Steelers are working out here for an exhibition Saturday night with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Numbers Make Kist Smile But Inexperience Is Still Main Eastburg Grid Problem

THERE IS something about numbers that sort of gives a man a lift. And Jack Kist, head football coach of East Stroudsburg High School, is no exception to the rule.

When pre-season football drills opened for the Cavaliers three weeks ago, 33 candidates for the 1956 Eastburg grid team reported for duty.

Today at mammoth Memorial Stadium, East Stroudsburg, 55 prospects are going through their paces, seeking spots on Kist's team.

While the difference in numbers is 22, the lack of experience still prevails as the youngsters punt, pass, block, tackle minus much-needed finesse.

However, it still is a happy coach who watches the overall total grow to figure that is bound to pay off sometime in the future.

On the prospects for 1956, Kist is pessimistic. After all he has a right to be, especially when you note only two starters from last year's eleven are among the 55 out for the team.

But since Aug. 18 when the squad first got together, a bright light has sprung out every so often. But overall, the Cavaliers don't have depth. And Kist is the first to admit this. When you note that the Eastburg grid has practically eliminated heavy scrimmages from his week's agenda, you know that he can't afford to lose a man at this stage of the game.

In the pre-season workouts he had to scrimmage to find what ticked. But now the likeable mentor doesn't have to endanger his inexperienced forces to such a great extent.

Coming Along
Jack will admit, "The boys are coming." He'll even go further and pinpoint a few underclassmen who have showed promise in practice sessions. The budding prospects are Joe Coleman and Fred Allen, two sophomore tackles; Jim Strunk, second-year guard; and Tom Long, sophomore defensive line backer.

If at any particular place Kist has a little depth, it would be in the backfield. From the likes of Frank Lupin, 1956 co-captain, Carl Smith, Phil Simon, Ralph Carter, Don Miller, Bob Herman, and new addition, Roger Ray, Jack can put a formidable array on the field and still have a representative corps of reserves ready for duty.

Line Thin
However, on the line, Kist is hurting. Except for Co-Capt. Roger Strouse, the only holdover from a last year's regular unit and Harry Miller, Dick Wolslayer, Woody Mosteller, Horace Cole, Ed Yakencheck, Bob Gordon, Jim Strunk, Jim Brimer, the pickings will be thin. Following this crew are boys who will have to get game experience under their belts and "pay to learn" as one tutor said.

The Cavaliers got quite a boost yesterday when Bob Stine, promising sophomore lineman, returned to active duty after being sidelined for three weeks with a neck injury. The comeback of Stine not only will help bolster the forward wall but the return served as a morale builder for the whole club who just seem to thrive on fighting spirit.

Open Friday
Eastburg opens against Slatington on the Slaters gridiron Friday night and will come up against a team that has already a 19-0 victory under its belt.

But Jack Kist and his valuable assistants, Del Davis, Doug Schoonover and Jim Werkheiser will have something in store for the Slaters. The Cavaliers, down to the last man, will see to that. — BOB CLARK.

Williams, Kaline Closing In On Mantle In AL Bat Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—Ted Williams of Boston and Detroit's Al Kaline are closing in on Mickey Mantle in two of the important batting categories and the Yankee star's chances of winning the American League's Triple Crown are dimmer than they were a couple of weeks ago.

With only three weeks of the regular season left to play, Mantle still is setting the pace in the batting competition with a .355 average, in home runs with 47 and in runs batted in with 118.

Williams, however, has narrowed the batting gap considerably. He shows a .344 mark after 349 times at bat and with 18 games remaining on the Red Sox' schedule. Ted must average .33 trips a game to reach the 400 at bat total necessary for consideration for the title.

RBI at 114
Kaline, meanwhile, drove in four tallies to lift his RBI aggregate to 114. Detroit has 18 games left to play and the Yankees 17.

In the National League, Milwaukee's Hank Aaron collected five hits in Sunday's doubleheader against the Cubs, boosting his leading average to .328. He showed a six-point gain last week.

Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cardinals, the No. 1 hitter a week ago slumped into a second-place deadlock with Pittsburgh's Bill Virdon at .320. Moon tailed off five points while Virdon moved up from the fourth position on a six-point increase.

Homer Leader
Brooklyn's Duke Snider remained in front in homers with 38 but he is closely followed by Frank Robinson of Cincinnati with 37. Joe Adcock of Milwaukee has wallowed 35 and Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs and Ed Mathews of the Braves are in contention with 34 apiece.

Kluszewski is the top RBI guy with 93. He drove in four runners last week, replacing Musial at the helm. Stan has 98 and Adcock 96.

Nittany Boasts Of 6 Top Ends

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Potentially, Penn State in 1956 will boast one of the finest end corps of the Big Ten.

While not big by present-day standards, the front runners range from 180 to 190 pounds, own fair speed, and are good pass receivers.

The top six, on the strength of early drills and 1955 performance, are Jack Faris, of Freedom; Paul North, of Baden; Doug Mechling, of Volant; Ron Markiewicz, of Braddock; Les Walters, of Hershey; and Romeo Pannozzo, of Providence, R. I.

PML To Pick Top Manager, Aide Monday

MANAGERS and officials of the Pocono Mountain League will select a most popular manager and a most deserving official at a meeting of the circuit Monday at Pocono Hotel, Effort. The session will get under way at 8:30 p. m.

The voting for the circuit citations will be by secret ballot. In 1951, the most popular manager award went to Gil Overpeck, Saylorsburg, and Clarence Smith. It was the only year the title was shared by two pilots.

In 1952, Clarence Smith, Kunkletown, topped the honor; '53, Jack Eshman, Lake Harmony, won the title; Dick Miller, Bushkill, garnered the crown in '54; and last year Gib Bachman, Saylorsburg, was the most popular manager.

Official Winners
The most deserving official title went to John Wernett, secretary from Saylorsburg, in 1951; in '52, Clint Getz, president from Lake Harmony, was the winner; Harry Jansen, vice president was the '53 recipient; N. Norman Warner, treasurer, grabbed the honor in 1954; and Elmer Christine, league counselor, was awarded the title in 1955.

John Wernett, league secretary, announced that four teams still have not made their nominations for individual "Oscar" awards. They are Lake Harmony, Saylorsburg, West End A. C. and Strouds. He urged that the officials of the teams do so by the meeting on Sept. 17.

Ticket Returns
It also was announced that ticket returns and money derived from the sale of duets of the recent PML All-Star game must be turned in to Jim Werkheiser chairman of the finance committee, at Monday's session.

A report by Wilmer Vogt, chairman of the official league banquet committee, will be given at the conference which is expected to turn out to be one of the top meetings of the year.

Birdies
Tutwiler, little known outside his own West Virginia where he has won seven amateur and open titles, unleashed a spray of birdies to oust Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., the 1955 British Amateur champion and U. S. semifinalist, 2 and 1.

Other matches over the 6,790-par-71 Knollwood Club course, whipped by early winds in the morning and a flash rainstorm in the afternoon, ran pretty much to form, although some of the highly

Harried Pilots Welcome Rest But Sleep Is Still Doubtful

By JOE RECHLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—The harried pilots of the three warring teams in the gripping National League pennant race welcomed the day of rest today but it was doubtful whether they'll get much sleep tonight on the eve of what may prove to be the most important series of the campaign.

Two of the three unyielding trio—Fred Haney of Milwaukee and Walter Alston of Brooklyn—appeared optimistic while the third—Birdie Tebbets of Cincinnati—breathed defiance as the league-leading Braves and second place Dodgers prepared for their two-game series at Ebbets Field. The third place Redlegs will take on the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

Still in Lead
"We're still in the lead," declared Haney, "and as long as we keep winning, nobody can lay a hand on us."

Alston, known for his conservatism, sounded what for him was a highly optimistic note when he said:

"Things haven't looked this good for us in a long while. With Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges starting to hit again, and with Clem Labine and Don Bessent rested and ready in the bullpen we're as ready for the Braves as we'll ever be."

Tebbetts, understandably downhearted over the three consecutive setbacks in St. Louis which dropped his Redlegs three games below the pace, warned not to count their team out of it.

"They're counted us out before and we always came back," he said.

Sellout Crowd
A sellout crowd of more than 32,000 was expected for tomorrow night's clash between the Braves and Dodgers. Bob Buhl (16-7), who has beaten the Dodgers seven times without a defeat this year, will oppose Sal Maglie (9-4).

On Wednesday, it will be Don Newcombe (23-4) for Brooklyn against Lew Burdette (18-9) for Milwaukee in a daylight affair. The Braves hold the season edge, 11 games to nine, but the Brooks have won four of the last six from Milwaukee.

Vet U. S. Rookie
The Redlegs are expected to throw righthander Larry Jansen (2-1) tomorrow against the Giants who will counter with rookie lefthander Joe Margoneri (5-5). On Wednesday it probably will be a southpaw duel between Joe Nuxhall (11-9) and Johnny Antonelli (15-13).

Each of the three contenders has only 17 games to go, but the Dodgers, with 13 at Ebbets Field, have far and away the best position in the schedule. Milwaukee

A NEW POWER DISCOVERY

New Super-Premium Sinclair Power-X Gasoline
with X-Chemical Increases Power, Cuts
Operating Costs as You Drive

Eliminates power-robbing engine deposits

90% more effective than any other gasoline additive in preventing spark plug fouling

70% more effective in stopping power loss from pre-ignition knock

All Cars Need It—Only Sinclair Has It

What makes a brand new car start to knock and lose power after a few thousand miles? What causes sluggish performance in older cars? The chief reason is carbon or other combustion deposits that form on spark plugs and pistons.

Now—for the first time in automotive history—a rare chemical has been developed that eliminates power-robbing engine deposits, thereby increasing power in older cars—retaining peak power in new cars.

Other gasoline additives, intended to combat spark plug fouling and pre-ignition, actually build up harmful deposits of their own. But Sinclair's new X-Chemical has none of these damaging after-effects. INSTEAD, IT CHANGES HARD, CRUSTY DEPOSITS INTO HARMLESS, POWDERY MATERIAL.

After just three tankfuls of new Super-Premium Power-X, you can feel the improvement in performance—provided you do not mix it with other gasoline. See your Sinclair Dealer and power up with new Sinclair Power-X Gasoline.

Stock Market Suffers Late Sinking Spell

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Many gains by stocks and motors faded as the stock market underwent a late sinking spell today.

Gains which had run to 2 or 3 points earlier were cut to fractions or converted into losses.

Generally, the range of losses stretched to around 3 points at worst among pivotal stocks.

The market opened mixed with aircraft about the only strong group. Activity in this group wilted although prices remained firm while interest switched to steel and motors. These groups made some solid gains in mid-session but in the final hour many of the best advances melted away.

Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 50 cents to $13.80 with the industrial down 80 cents, the rails down 90 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Volume totaled 1,860,010 shares compared with 1,690,000 Friday.

Of the 1,117 issues traded, there were 513 declines to 355 gains. There were 46 new lows for the year as against 26 new highs.

The most active stock was at 18 1/2 on 61,500 shares.

State Beauty Begins Year Of Reign

MISS PENNSYLVANIA 1956 (Miss Lorna Malcomson Ringler) who visited the Poconos recently while on an air tour of the Commonwealth won a $1,000 scholarship award as "best popular singer" at the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City last week.

Miss Ringler entered the Preliminary Pageant of the Miss America Pageant as "Miss Delaware County" and won the title of Miss Pennsylvania over 25 other Pennsylvania girls. She is a niece of a former Miss America, Ruth Malcomson.

Reason

Miss Ringler said: "I entered the local Miss America contest so that I might fulfill the ambitions and goals I have set for myself and to bring honor upon my community and credit to the civic organization that sponsored me."

The Miss Pennsylvania Pageant was directed by the West Chester Exchange Club.

She received a $2,000 scholarship award by winning the Miss Pennsylvania title, and will make approximately $10,000 during the coming reign as Official Ambassadors of the State of Pennsylvania and will make personal appearances until July 1957 when the new Queen is chosen.

Handy Guide For Police

OSLO, Sept. 10 (AP)—Norway's professional lawbreakers were jolted last week by disclosure that police have a handy guide to underworld nicknames. A newspaper published excerpts of the official criminal Who's Who including such pseudonyms as Tumblepot, Gunpowder Spray, the Snake from Barcelona, the Vampire Dancer, Hurricane Drunk and Broadway Jack. Each listing was followed by the individual's correct name, age, and illegal specialty.

Deborah Lynn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Waltz. A family dinner party followed at their home at Fern Ridge.

Word has been received by the Kerrick family that a daughter was born Aug. 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kerrick of Half Moon Bay, Calif. Mrs. Kerrick was formerly Evelyn Elvine of Locust Ridge.

Mrs. Carrie Gardner of Fern Ridge called on Mrs. Walter Waltz last Friday.

The turkey supper served by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church at the Community House was a financial success.

Series Of Games Mark Chess Battles

STROUDSBURG Chess Club members, greeting the Fall with increased interest in the ancient sport, staged many contests at the weekend meeting of the organization and also engaged in several extra contests mostly at the Penn-Stroud hotel.

These were highlighted by a seven-game series on Saturday night between William P. Deering, Stroudsburg, and Louis Mondelle, East Stroudsburg, which went to the former four to three.

At the club session results were as follows: Edward Bosman, East Stroudsburg won four games from A. J. Vlossak, Mount Pocono, and one from Earl Weiss. He lost two games to Harold James and one to Weiss and two to Vlossak. Bosman and Harold James also played to a draw in another contest, which was stubbornly fought.

Victory

Vlossak defeated James in a tough game but lost to the latter in a second engagement. Weiss defeated the mountain representative in two games.

Again Mondelle and Deering played a series of seven games, Mondelle having the edge this time by one game.
